Syncope Cases

As we attempt to compare and contrast the sacrifices of the Old Testament with the sacrifice by Christ of Himself, we discover that the emphasis in Hebrews 9 and 10, with respect to the Old Testament sacrifices, is upon their temporary value because they were repeated again and again and their extrinsic efficacy because they were not intended to point to themselves, but to the atoning sacrifice of Christ which gave efficacy to them ; and we discover that the emphasis in those chapters, with respect to the sacrifice of Christ, is upon its permanent value because it was completed once and for all by the eternal Word made flesh and its intrinsic efficacy because it was and is a perfect and complete satisfaction. Out in the yammering crowd I hit the flow, dodging ad-pixies selling everything from personal autobiodocudramas to cellular revolution.
